

ANORAK

ILLIMITÉWORLD

Born and raised in Baltimore and with no Art or Film school backgrounds, Aus and Marleaux create with the intention of breaking boundaries. The two have been directing videos together and separately since 2016.

Both directors are members & founders of a multifaceted audiovisual creative collective known as ILLIMITÉWORLD. The collective is comprised of directors, animators, music producers and artists, and is constantly adapting and expanding its creative alliances.

From original pieces to entire creative rollouts for recording artists like Paris Texas & Uno Hype, Aus & Marleaux have had their hands in an array of projects.

They've recently taken the commercial world by a storm, making films for brands such as Google, Adidas, Meta, Beats by Dre and Indeed - all within a year.

"The world is y(ours)" is a mantra used by the group as a reminder that each artistic offering is a view into the world of their imaginations. Using an experimental combination of classical cinema, creative animation, and raw documentary style filmmaking, they share with viewers an avant-garde perspective of the modern world.

ILLIMITÉWORLD aspires to raise the bar of quality among the landscape of independent artists.

The collective is based in Los Angeles.
